

Mackenzie Investments, IGM Financial Leadership Changes

Mackenzie Investments have announced Barry McInerney's retirement, effective June 30, 2022, Mr. McInerney spent nearly six years in the role of President and CEO with Mackenzie Investments. With Mr. McInerney's retirement, Luke Gould, currently Chief Financial Officer of IGM Financial, will assume the responsibility of Mackenzie's new President and CEO, effective July 1, 2022. Mr. Gould joined IG Wealth Management in 1997 and was appointed Chief Financial Officer of IG Wealth Management in 2012, followed by his succession as CFO of Mackenzie in 2013 before becoming CFO of IGM Financial in 2018. Gould also spent the past eight years as a member of Mackenzie's Operating Committee.

Replacing Mr. Gould as CFO of IGM Financial will be Keith Potter, effective July 1, 2022. Potter joined IG Wealth Management in 1994 and has been IGM's Senior Vice-President & Treasurer since 2014.

In addition, Kelly Hepher will be joining IGM Financial as Chief Risk Officer, effective April 1, 2022. Hepher will be responsible for IGM's corporate sustainability. Hepher most recently served as Senior Vice-President and Canada Chief Risk Officer for Great-West Lifeco.

March 09, 2022