

Brandywine Global, Global Fixed Income Team Update

Brandywine Global has added additional strength and resources to its portfolio management team via several promotions and transitions.

Michael Arno, CFA, Renato Latini, CFA, and Carol Lye were promoted to Portfolio Manager and Senior Research Analyst from Associate Portfolio Manager and Senior Research Analyst. Arno is a Portfolio Manager on the Global Multi-Sector and Emerging Market strategy suites. Latini is a Portfolio Manager on the Global Multi-Sector range of strategies. Lye is a Portfolio Manager on the Emerging Market and Sovereign-only strategy suites. In addition, Kevin O'Neil and Andrew Bogle were promoted to Associate Portfolio Manager and Senior Research Analyst from Senior Research Analyst. O'Neil is a member of the portfolio management team on the U.S. Fixed Income strategies. Bogle is a member of the portfolio management team on the Global Multi-Sector strategies.

In addition, Brandywine Global's Director of Global Macro Research, Francis Scotland will be stepping down from his role, effective June 2024. Scotland joined Brandywine Global in 2006 and drives the global macroeconomic research which supports the fixed-income group's investment process, provides investment ideas and strategic asset allocation recommendations. Over the coming year, Scotland will continue in his role and provide insights to the team, while Paul Mielczarski, Head of Global Macro Strategy, will take on more of Scotland's management and client-related responsibilities. Mielczarski is currently responsible for providing proprietary global macroeconomic research to support the fixed-income team's investment process. Prior to joining Brandywine Global in 2023, he served as Director of Portfolio Strategy for two years at Ontario Teachers' Pension Plan after working for five years as a portfolio manager.
